● Erhvervslivets kernerådgiver

For Skanderborgs største revisionsfirma, Revisions-Partner, tager man begrebet "personlig kontakt til kunden" dybt alvorligt og helt bogstaveligt.

Ifølge firmaet handler en revisors arbejde både om tal og om mennesker. Naturligvis skal revisoren først og fremmest beherske en række fagdiscipliner, men ligeså vigtigt er det, at revisoren kan skabe personlig kontakt og tale, forstå og samarbejde med den enkelte kunde.

– Revisorens arbejde og rolle har ændret sig. Hvor det tidligere kun drejede sig om at udarbejde regnskaber og revidere, er arbejdet i dag i høj grad, at fungere som kernerådgiver for virksomhederne og yde individuel kundeservice og rådgivning omkring alle forhold, som har indflydelse på en virksomheds økonomi, lyder det fra Revisions-Partners tre indehavere, registreret revisorer Nis-Ole Nissen, Jens Jensen og Per K. Jensen.

Revisions-Partner er økonomisk kernerådgiver for virksomhederne og yder service inden for bogføring, regnskab, revision og budgettering. Desuden ydes rådgivning omkring bl.a. IT, ledelse, investering, finansiering, lønsomhed, generationsskifte, markedsføring, medarbejdere, kunder og leverandører.

Revisionsfirmaets kunder spænder bredt over mange forskellige brancher og størrelser. Blandt kunderne er således både den énmandsejede købmand hende om hjørnet, den store produktionsvirksomhed med 100 ansatte og den offentlige sektor.

Revisions-Partner er den aktive problemløser, der i samarbejde med den enkelte kunde finder løsninger ud fra virksomhedens samlede situation. Samtidig er det en vigtig del af revisorens rolle at pege på den enkelte virksomheds muligheder, problemer og risici. Kodeordene for Revisions-Partner og firmaets i alt 12 medarbejdere er faglig kompetence, ydelser af høj kvalitet, ansvarlighed, kvalitetssikring, uafhængighed og tæt og lokal kundekontakt.

● Key advisor to the business community

Revisions-Partner, the largest firm of accountants and auditors in Skanderborg, takes the concept of personal customer contact very seriously.

According to Revisions-Partner, accountancy and auditing are about figures as well as people. Of course, the accountant has to possess a number of professional competences, but it is equally important that he or she can forge personal relations and speak, understand and collaborate with individual customers.

– The role of the accountant has changed. The three owners of Revisions-Partner, Nis-Ole Nissen, Jens

Jens Jensen

Jensen and Per K. Jensen, who are all registered accountants, agree that today the accountant no longer has to simply present and audit accounts; the role of the accountant is now much more that of a key advisor for businesses, providing individual customer service and advice on all the factors influencing their financial position.

Per K. Jensen

Revisions-Partner is a key financial advisor to businesses and offers its services within the fields of bookkeeping, accountancy, auditing and budgeting. The firm also provides consultancy on, for example, IT, management, investments, financing, profitability, business succession, marketing, HR, customers and suppliers.

The Skanderborg-based firm of accountants and auditors serves businesses large and small within a wide range of sectors and industries. Customers range from the proprietor of the corner shop to large manufacturing companies with more than 100 employees as well as the public sector.

Revisions-Partner is an active trouble-shooter, working with individual customers to tailor solutions to their specific needs and requirements. At the same time, an important role for Revisions-Partner's accountants is pinpointing opportunities as well as any problems and risks that individual businesses may face.

Key concepts for Revisions-Partner's twelve members of staff are professional integrity, services of a high quality, accountability, quality assurance, independence and close and local customer relations.
