Moderne bank i historiske rammer

Oplevelser og bankdrift går hånd i hånd i Skanderborgs nye fuldservice bank, Sparbank, der i begyndelsen af 2007 åbnede en filial i en historisk ejendom centralt i byen. Det tidligere Hotel Niels Ebbesen er nu rammen om den moderne Sparbank, hvor atmosfæren er uhøjtidelig og kompetencerne er i top. Banken er såvel borgernes som erhvervslivets lokale bank. De seks ansatte, med filialdirektør Robert Pedersen i spidsen, er alle erfarne bankfolk, der løser opgaver indenfor privat-, erhvervs- og investeringsrådgivning på alle niveauer.

Sparbank er også en anderledes bank, hvor oplevelser er en integreret del af driften. F.eks. fungerer ejendommens smukt restaurerede tidligere dansesal både som bankens erhvervsafdeling og som foredragssal. Med jævne mellemrum inviteres kunder såvel som byens borgere til foredrag i de historiske rammer.

● Sparbank

A modern bank in historic premises

Banking and cultural history go hand in hand at Skanderborg's new full-service bank, Sparbank, which opened a branch in a historic property near the town centre at the beginning of 2007. The former Hotel Niels Ebbesen now houses a modern Sparbank, where customers will find a relaxed atmosphere and a high degree of professionalism. The bank serves as a local financial institution for both residents and the business community. The six employees, headed by the branch manager Robert Pedersen, are all experienced banking staff who apply their competences to solve tasks within private, corporate and investment banking at all levels.

Sparbank is a different bank in that it takes an original approach to how it is run. For example, the beautifully restored former ballroom functions both as the bank's business section as well as an auditorium. Here, customers and local citizens are regularly invited to talks in the historic setting.
